

GUIDI (ASCONAUTO): 'ERROR IS ACCEPTING ELECTRIC ZERO EMISSIONS'

The basic error lies in the fact of having accepted the electric message "zero emissions", although for food recharges the energy comes from coal-fired plants. The situation is not simple, the forecasts are dramatic for the future of employment for the entire automotive supply chain, without any guaranteed safe environmental benefits. He said the president ASConAuto Fabrizio Guidi, the Consortia Vehicles Dealers Association which brings together 23 associations in 17 regions, confirming its role as an organization that can provide concrete proposals for the automotive industry, hit by the revolution triggered by the rush to 'electrification. During the round table organized at the Automotive Forum, Guidi said that "With the wailing wall in danger just to stand still and take antidepressants without solving the problem. To straighten a situation that already seems compromised the technical reasons are not enough, because they do not listen, you need to mention those who will be the effect on families resulting from uncontrolled and unmanaged change. The scenery is dramatic in Europe, and certainly there will be the impact on employment which is appropriate to emphasize. The error - HAS CONCUSO - it is that we explain our reasons only in politics, but who does demagoguery will appeal directly to the people, with results that are evident as devastating." ASConAuto Welcomes the initiative to #FORUMAutoMotive that through the voices of the members of the entire chain of the sector, each edition shows a greater cohesion between the parties convened at the table looking for solutions. "If we all work for a common goal the effects are balanced. They need the right timing to advance things, reasoning together. Because in the end this is the car industry to which common sense suggests all sit at the same table." Share on: Whatsapp Telegram I like it: Loading...

[GUIDI (ASCONAUTO): 'ERROR IS ACCEPTING ELECTRIC ZERO EMISSIONS']